MacArthur Sets Up Southwest Pacific Headquarters

Heavy Bombers of U. S. Air Force Will Soon Be Used against Germans

Big Ships Are Being Ferried to British Operational Bases, London Reports; Joint Air Action with British Seen as Result of Marshall's Visit to England, Will Aid RAF in Attacks

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, April 21.—Heavy bombers of the United States Air Force, the first of the all-American striking units which will soon fly wing-to-wing with the RAF against the Nazi continent, are being ferried to British operational bases, it was reported reliably tonight.

Any day now, the British expect to see the red, white and blue star insignia of the United States planes, and air correspondents of the national press are saying that the planes and their American crews will make Britain "the world's greatest air base."

This fruition of plans for joint air action is the most noticeable consequence of the visit here of General George C. Marshall, the United States chief of staff, last Saturday, before he flew back to the United States, Gen. Marshall said that United States Air Force units soon would be at fields in all parts of Britain and that United States troops in the British Isles would participate in British Commando raids on Nazi-held European bases.

The first United States planes—be flown and probably serviced by Americans—are understood to be big bombers capable of flying to Atlantic and going into service after mechanical tune-ups and establishment of base facilities, which will be provided largely by the British.

To follow by ship will be medium bombers and possibly dive-bombers, which some commentators long have regarded as the RAF's greatest need.

At the receiving end of this imminent combined offensive action, the Germans occupying forces in Northern France, the Netherlands and Belgium were reported by Dutch sources today to be building up a bicycle army to combat invasion thrusts from the British Isles.

Dutchmen escaping from the Netherlands said cycle factories in the low countries and Denmark were working at top speed on German army orders. They said also that the German officers and soldiers were extremely jittery over Allied invasion prospects.

Roosevelt Reviews War Situation at Conferences

President Confers with Members of Pacific War Council

WASHINGTON, April 21 (P)—In an unusual series of conferences, which included the fourth meeting of the Pacific War Council, President Roosevelt today reviewed the situation from the thawing of Russia to the far reaches of Australia.

Forts in Manila Bay Are Pounded By Big Jap Guns, Bombing Planes

War Department Reports Damage Small; American and Filipino Forces Withdraw in Antique

WASHINGTON, April 21 (P)—The American island forts in Manila Bay emerged with colors flying today from terrific pounding by Japanese big guns and dive bombers. The War department reported that the "damage inflicted was not great."

Meanwhile, fierce Japanese attacks forced American and Filipino defending forces to abandon two points in Antique Province on the island of Panay.

These developments were announced in an army communique, summarizing the continuing resistance to Japanese invasion in the Philippines.

In a later communique the department disclosed that all but 107 of the National Guard troops who were fighting in Bataan probably were prisoners of the Japanese. Unofficially estimated to total approximately 3,000 men, the guardsmen comprise the One Hundred and Ninety-second Tank Battalion and the Two Hundredth Coast Artillery, anti-aircraft.

Jap Pilots Inexpert

Three officers and 104 enlisted men of the Two Hundredth Coast Artillery were evacuated from Bataan and are now at Corregidor, the communique said. This regiment of approximately 1,400 men was composed entirely of New Mexico troops. Each of the tank battalions was believed to have contained between 700 and 800 men. The One Hundred and Ninety-second was made up of companies from Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, and Kentucky, and the One Hundred and Ninety-fourth of companies from Minnesota, Missouri, California and Washington state.

A heavy artillery fire was concentrated on the island forts—Corregidor, Fort Hughes and Fort Drum—yesterday.

Simultaneously, dive bombers attacked the fortifications. Their Japanese pilots, however, proved highly inexperienced at the technique perfected by the Nazi Luftwaffe. The communique said most of the bombs

Hitler's Spring Offensive Plans Thought Dimming

Russia Reports Once Bright Hopes of Nazis All but Vanished

KUIBYSHEV, U. S. S. R., April 21 (P)—The Russians reported today that Adolf Hitler's once bright hopes for a spring offensive, by the admission of his own Soviet-captured officers, have all but vanished under the haunting fear of a British-American thrust in the west.

Soviet authorities said their own predictions that the threatened Nazi offensive would come in the summer instead of the spring—if it comes at all—had been borne out by statements of a Major Bittner, captive German transport officer.

The Russians said this officer related that the specter of double trouble—war on two fronts—had seeped into the German high command itself and that Nazi hopes of big spring operations were growing dim.

Prisoners seen by foreign correspondents and information gathered by the Russians show that the main force of the German army, whittled down by the Red army's winter operations, now is made up of reserves who are family men over thirty instead of the youths originally thrown into the battle of Russia.

On the fighting fronts, meanwhile, the Russians were reported attacking Smolensk, center of German military power, under cover of an artillery bombardment with the Nazi defenders floundering in swampy forest areas.

The Moscow radio announced that Gen. Zhukov's troops approaching Smolensk from the northeast repulsed several fierce enemy counterattacks, killing 1,800 Germans in two days. In one day five Soviet

Martin Sees Non-War Spending As Big Issue in Fall Campaign

Republicans Plan "Poor Man's" Campaign in Congressional Elections

CHICAGO, April 21 (P)—The Roosevelt administration's non-war spending will form a prime political issue this year, Chairman Joseph W. Martin of the Republican National Committee predicted today as he looked ahead to a "poor man's campaign" for House and Senate seats.

"The people are willing that we spend all that is needed in the war effort but they are getting fed up on other expenditures," he stated at a press conference. "They are demanding a reduction of normal governmental expenses and they want non-essentials cut out."

Such outlays, he added, would develop one of the principal issues in the forthcoming inter-party fight.

Party Finances Good

Martin told reporters the party never was in a better financial position and related that it was virtually free of debt whereas it was $1,500,000 in the hole in 1937.

"We have very little money on hand, however, and we'll run a poor man's campaign," he related. "But I think we'll be able to get enough money for a moderate campaign."

He disclosed that contributions were "well up" to those of other years and announced that a fund raising project would be organized. Martin was asked if the Republicans would voice criticism of the administration's conduct of the war and he replied:

"We reserve the right to make constructive suggestions about

Paper Must Give Truth of War, Good or Bad, Publisher Asserts

It is going to require 'blood, sweat and tears.'
Hoy, chairman of the ANPA's first session, said that the newspapers were telling the truth now and that it was their responsibility to see that the public continued to get the truth.

The newspapers of this country are co-operating under a voluntary censorship and they are careful not to publish any information that would be of value to our enemies," he said. "Through correspondents in all strategic battle zones and by means of all modern methods of communication, the newspapers are presenting amazingly complete, accurate and colorful accounts as well as timely news pictures of this world-wide conflict."

Staff Is Headed By Old Comrades Of Philippines

Begins Tour of Duty as Supreme Allied Commander of Southwest Pacific

By VERN HAUGLAND

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 21 (P)—General Douglas MacArthur selected today a staff headed up by his old comrades of the Philippine campaign and formally began his tour of duty as Supreme Allied Commander of the Southwest Pacific by issuing his first military communique for this entire theater, a roundup of the Allied position from Luzon south to the Australian sea frontier.

While his vast command was thus put into smooth operation as one integrated unit, the political leadership of this commonwealth issued to the world through the Australian Army Minister Francis M. Forde one of the most heartening declarations since first the enemy's shadow began to fall to the south from the Dutch East Indies.

Predicts Staggering Offensive

Speaking at Rockhampton, Forde declared:

"The war has turned in our favor. We will not rest until we are at full strength and our forces are fully equipped."

"When the Allied offensive against the Axis is unfolded it will be a staggering spectacle. The day for it to be unleashed is not yet here, but it is not too far off."

Nevertheless the minister predicted that the war would be long and that there would be more Allied reverse.

"To think that the Japanese will concentrate on India and not come here would be foolishness," he added. "We must be prepared for the worst."

General MacArthur's selections for his staff plainly showed that the plight of the Philippines, no less than that of the conquered Dutch East Indies and Australia itself, remained strong in his thoughts and plans.

These were his appointments:

Chief of staff, Major General Richard K. Sutherland, 48, a West Virginian.

Deputy chief of staff, Brigadier General Richard J. Marshall, 46, a Virginian.

His chief assistants, also are all Americans:

Personnel, Col. Charles P. Sivers; military intelligence, Col. Charles A. Willoughby; operations and training, Brigadier General Stephen J. Chamberlain; supply, Col. Lester J. Whitlock; adjutant general, Col. Burdette M. Pich.

Other Staff Members

Other members of the new staff include Col. H. F. H. Durant of the Australian army; Lieutenant Colonel J. M. R. Sandberg of the Royal N.E.I. Army; Lieutenant Colonel John D. Rogers of the Australian Army.

In addition, it was explained, members of the staffs of the Australian General Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of all Allied land forces; Lieutenant General George H. Brett, U.S.A., commander of all Allied air forces; and Vice Admiral Herbert F. Leary, U.S.N., command-

Congressional Medal of Honor Awarded O'Hare

American War Hero Receives Promotion from President Roosevelt

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, April 21 (P)—For perhaps the "most daring single action in the history of combat aviation," a young naval lieutenant, Edward H. O'Hare, received his country's highest honor today from President Roosevelt.

It was last February 20, that O'Hare, assigned to a carrier operating near the Gilbert Islands, lifted his plane from the flight deck and streaked for nine heavy Japanese bombers bent on pounding his ship to the bottom of the Pacific. In five minutes he shot down five of the bombers and damaged a sixth.

Today O'Hare stood beside his commander-in-chief, stifling his surprise by standing rigidly at attention, and was awarded a promotion to the rank of lieutenant commander and a Congressional Medal of Honor.

Bride Watches Proudly

Watching proudly was his bride of a few months, and it was his blue ribbon from which the star-shaped bronze medal was suspended. That was because President Roosevelt fumbled furtively with the clasp and then turned the job over to hands which, he said, were more skillful than his own.

Although the chief executive is an expert at putting people at ease, the little ceremony in his office more nearly overpowered the St. Louis flying ace than did all the Japanese he saw in the epic war duels over the Pacific. His brief words of appreciation were almost inaudible.

Only O'Hare's eyes, blinking and twisting, betrayed his nervousness during the moment when Mr. Roosevelt read this citation in matter-of-fact tones:

The Citation

"For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in aerial combat, at grave risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty, as section leader and pilot of Fighting Squadron 3, when on February 20, 1942, having lost the assistance of teammates, he interposed his plane between his ship and an advancing enemy formation of nine attacking twin-engine heavy bombers. Without hesitation, alone and unaided, he repeatedly attacked

WASHINGTON, April 21 (P)—

Donald M. Nelson told a Senate committee happily today that military production was "over the hump" but complained in almost the same breath that congressional criticism was making many business men hesitate to accept dollar-a-year jobs to aid the program.

Puffing on a big black pipe, the husky war production chief sketched for the Senate Defense Investigating committee a picture of rounded activities he said were keeping the assembly lines moving at such a pace that a few months would find the Axis on the short end of military equipment scales.

Production Is Increasing

"America, England and Russia are producing war material in much greater quantity than our Axis enemies," he declared. "I believe we are over the hump on production. Everything we have is in production and we are getting increased quantities."

These increases, he added, promise to wipe out within a very few months the advantage which rested with the Axis powers which had built up reserves of equipment for several years in anticipation of war.

In this connection Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) of the House Appropriations committee told that chamber that "we have now outdistanced the enemy in production and are producing as much war material as Germany, Italy and Japan combined" and "by the end of the year we will have passed their accumulated reserve."

Nelson reported that "American industry has done a good job, and so has labor," but warned that there was still a lot of work to be done, a number of corners to be rounded and many problems to be met.

Further than that, he said, Congress was not helping matters by criticizing business men, sending probing questionnaires to the firms, which had released them for government service and generally impugning the honesty of their intentions.

"It is getting to the point," Nelson said plaintively, "where if you

OPA Says Electric Appliance Dealers Violate Rules

Charges They Are Not Observing Price Ceilings on Some Items

BALTIMORE, April 21 (P)—The regional office of price administration charged today that many electric appliance dealers in the region were not observing price ceilings on certain items.

The office, covering Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, said maximum price regulations on radios, refrigerators, domestic stoves, heaters, washers and ironers were being violated.

The OPA office said regulations were mailed a few days ago to all dealers in this area.

Persons with evidence of any violation of the price regulations were asked by OPA to forward the information to the regional office. A thorough investigation by the OPA's enforcement division was promised.

Retailers were told they must post prices on the affected home appliances in a conspicuous place in their store, giving the model number, brand name and maximum price. The OPA office added that a complete record must be kept of all sales, listing customers' names, addresses and prices paid.

Enemy-Owned Patents Which Would Aid U. S. War Effort To Be Seized

Survey To Make Holdings Available for Production To Be Made

By RICHARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, April 21 (P)—President Roosevelt today announced a plan to seize any useful enemy owned or controlled patents and apply them to America's war effort regardless of technical legal obstacles. By defining patent rights as property, he said, it could be done under his wartime emergency powers.

To this end, he told a press conference, he had directed Leo Crowley, the alien property custodian,

New Raid Alarms Sound in Japan, Berlin Reports

Japanese Confine Broadcasts to Depreciatory Reports on Attacks

(By The Associated Press.) Central and western Japan were held under new air alarms yesterday, (Tuesday), afternoon, the Berlin radio reported, but the Japanese themselves confined their broadcasts to depreciatory reports on Saturday's raids on four great cities and to hints of a peace offensive in a lengthy account of prayers by Japanese Christians for an early peace.

The German report said that alarms sounded between 4 and 5 P. M. Japanese time (3 and 4 A. M. Eastern War Time), and that "for Central Japan the all-clear sounded about 5 P. M., while the alarm remained in force for Western Japan, especially for Kyushu."

Kyushu is the most southern and westerly of the four main Japanese islands, nearest China. It has many steel mills, the great Sasebo naval base and the important port of Nagasaki.

The German broadcast said nothing of planes or bombs, so the alarms may have been precautionary or nervous reaction to the raids Saturday on Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya and Kobe.

Comments Are Made

The Japanese made several broadcasts about those raids.

One said various ministers reported to the cabinet Tuesday that Japanese life had been affected only in a few instances and to small degree and that the transportation system was hardly disturbed.

Another, in French, told of two planes being attacked Saturday by Japanese interceptors.

"Shortly after 1 P. M. (Saturday), they picked up an enemy plane which seemed to be of the North American B-25 type, flying at less than 1,000 meters," said this broadcast.

"The enemy plane then climbed but was attacked again over Oshima Island (60 miles southwest of Tokyo) at 1,500 meters. It caught fire and lost altitude gradually, finally disappearing in the clouds. But from the circumstances it appears the plane must have fallen into the sea."

The other plane attacked, the broadcast said, also appeared to have fallen into the sea.

Pray for Peace

The Japanese broadcast on prayers for peace quoted Toyohiko Kagawa, most famous Japanese Christian leader, as saying that more than 200 Japanese Christians prayed day and night for a week before the outbreak of war and that even now "prayers are being said daily for an early conclusion of the war and restoration of peace throughout the world."

This broadcast might be a cautious feeler in a "peace offensive" of the type which Archbishop MacLeish, director of the federal office of facts and figures, predicted Monday the Axis would launch this summer.

Kagawa has lectured widely in the United States and his books have had some circulation in this country, so Japanese leaders could be counting on his reputation to gain a hearing for such an offensive.

The broadcast said Kagawa declared the pre-war prayers were "started in response to an appeal made by Bishop Stanley Jones of the Methodist church and well-known American writer Dr. Kagawa received a cablegram from Bishop Jones exactly a week before war broke out, asking Japanese to participate in a period of prayer for prevention of catastrophe in the Pacific."

Australian Destroyer Is Lost; Most Crew Members Saved

MELBOURNE, Wednesday, April 22 (AP)—The Australian destroyer Vampire has been lost in the Bay of Bengal as a result of enemy action, but most of the crew were saved, Premier John Curtin announced today.

The 1,000-ton flotilla leader carried a normal complement of 134 men.

Curtin said six of the crew were killed, one other died of wounds and two were missing and supposed dead.

The Vampire, built in 1917, mounted four 4-inch guns and six 21-inch torpedo tubes, and had a speed of 34 knots.

In a previous engagement with the Japanese, the Vampire and the Destroyer Thanet fought a cruiser and three destroyers off Endau, about eighty-five miles above Singapore, last Jan. 26, and came out of the conflict without damage or casualties.

Poles Will Fight In the Near East

Army of Many Thousands Arrive in Asia from Russia

By EDWARD KENNEDY
CAIRO, Egypt, April 21 (AP)—A new army of many thousands of Poles from Russia has arrived in the Near East to swell the Allied forces in this region.

In Russian camps since the collapse of Poland, these soldiers now are clad in uniforms supplied by Britain. They are in rugged health and, as one stalwart put it: "we only want to get back into battle at the side of other Polish units already here to avenge Hitler's rape of our country."

Their commander is General Wladyslaw Anders, who had charge of all Polish forces in Russia.

Joseph Stalin agreed some months ago with General Wladyslaw Sikorski, premier-war minister of the Polish government-in-exile to let out 25,000 Poles to fight in the Near East.

There was a long delay but finally they came and the number was considerably above the figure agreed upon.

In the meantime they had already been supplied with British uniforms bearing the word "Poland" on every sleeve.

Accompanying them was a woman's corps garbed also in British battledress with breeches and military boots. These Polish girls are untroubled, have no lipstick but some are beautiful.

They are not combatants but are assigned to jobs of danger and difficulty, such as driving trucks and ambulances at the front. "All of us men and women have only one war cry and one prayer," said one. "It is: 'Poland will live again!'"

MRS. WILLIAM LEAHY, WIFE OF AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE, DIES

VICHY, France, April 21 (AP)—Mrs. William D. Leahy, wife of the United States Ambassador, died unexpectedly today at the age of 66.

The state Department summoned Admiral Leahy home for consultation when Pro-Nazi Pierre Laval regained power last week, but the admiral had delayed his departure because Mrs. Leahy, recuperating from an abdominal operation, was unable to travel.

Her death was a complete surprise. An embolism or blood clot reaching the heart was believed to have been fatal. She underwent the operation twelve days ago, and recently had discussed with the admiral the advisability of her removal to the embassy.

Chinese, British Forces Are Holding In Mt. Popa Area

Communique Says Japanese Are Pushed Back from Yenanyang Oil Wells

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW DELHI, India, April 21 (AP)—Heard by the first Allied victory of the Burma campaign—the recapture of the desolated oil center of Yenanyang and rescue of 7,000 encircled British troops—Chinese and British forces held firmly today to a line running westward from the 3,000-foot heights of Mt. Popa to the broad Irrawaddy river.

A British communique confirmed that the Chinese under the American Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell had joined British armored forces in an attack which drove the Japanese back southward from Yenanyang, where the British had destroyed 6,000 oil wells last week to keep them from the hands of the invaders.

As a result, the communique said, the British main forces were enabled to move northward across the Pinchaung river, which starts on the steep slopes of Mt. Popa and plunges quickly down to the Irrawaddy almost at sea level just above Yenanyang.

The Chinese, who estimated the number of rescued British at 7,000, remained in occupation of Yenanyang.

While the British communique said no further action had been reported by them since yesterday's attack, a Chinese spokesman in Chungking declared severe fighting still was in progress.

Kill 500 Japanese
The Chinese said they had killed 500 Japanese and lost only 100 of their own men, although these included a battalion chief.

Hailing the Yenanyang battle as a brilliant victory, British military sources warned that the long-term position in Burma appeared little improved even though the immediate situation was "considerably relieved."

Both the British and Chinese indicated some concern lest Japanese attackers farther east might lay open the left flank of the Irrawaddy front.

Reinforced Japanese troops were reported attacking the Chinese in the Sittang river area at Lewi, ten miles southwest of Pymnana, with artillery shelling extended as far north as Aing, ten miles north of Lewi.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Whatever its deeper strategic significance, there is much evidence that American bombing over Japan as reported from Tokyo is stirring public belief along the whole United Nations front that it signals another vital war corner turned in Allied favor.

Even lacking authoritative word as to that operation from any American source, it has set off in London predictions that American army planes are on the verge of carrying their colors into battle over enemy territory also on the other side of the world. German and German-held war factories on the continent soon are to feel the weight of joint British-American airpower, it is stated.

Will Test Allied Strategy
Circumstances tend to back that prediction up. The crisis on the Russian-German front is close at hand. A test of Nazi ability to regain the offensive on any effective scale cannot be many weeks away.

It will be a test, too, of the prime Allied strategy which has called for concentration on aid to Russia whatever the risks taken in the Pacific and Indian ocean, and even the Mediterranean.

Behind that lies the firm belief in Washington and London that should Hitler's attack again bog down in Russia this year, the end will be at least distantly in sight.

Accepting that as the keystone of Allied strategy, it follows logically that Anglo-American air attack and counter invasion threats against the Nazi's 2,000-mile continental seacoast must be stepped up to maximum. Every telling blow struck there in the weeks ahead tends to ease German pressure on Russia.

Russians Pounding Smolensk
The Russians, however, are not waiting for Anglo-American massed air attacks or other help to take full advantage of their greater mobility over their foe in mud as well as snow. Red army guns are reported within range of the Smolensk Central station of the Nazi winter front. Should it fall, the whole Nazi center would crack. A greater disaster than Napoleon's could result for the Germans.

Associated Press By-Laws Changed And Liberalized

Members Adopt Amendments To Meet Changing Conditions

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP)—Changes in the by-laws of the Associated Press, largest non-profit, cooperative newsgathering organization in the world, to meet new and changing conditions have been approved by more than four-fifths of the member newspapers' representatives.

Requirements of admission to membership were liberalized upon the recommendation of the board of directors who advised the AP's annual meeting that "the department of justice has declared, through a series of communications to the officers of this corporation and in personal interviews following an examination of the by-laws of the associated press, that they are in violation of the provisions of the Sherman Anti-trust law."

Changes Necessary

In a preface to their recommended amendments, the board said that "this corporation, through its officers and directors, has been placed on notice that certain changes must be made in its method of electing members or that it will incur the risk of proceedings in the courts, which if successful, could have the effect of bringing about the dissolution of the corporation, thus jeopardizing the existing rights of all members and impairing the value of their newspaper properties."

Associated Press member editors and publishers from all sections of the country participated in an all-afternoon discussion of the proposed changes.

The amendments approved eliminate the historic right of protest of original AP newspaper members in the same field (morning evening or Sunday) and instead provides for payments to them by new members under a formula calculated to reimburse the original members on a basis of value of their AP membership.

Provision for Membership

The amendments provide that after an application for AP membership has been approved, the applicant shall not be admitted to AP membership or become an AP member, where there are one or more existing AP memberships in the field in the city in which the applicant has been elected, until:

1. The applicant shall pay to the corporation (the AP) a sum equal to ten per cent of the total amount of the regular assessments received from members in the field involved during the period from Oct. 1, 1900, to the first day of the month preceding the date of the election of the applicant, and provides that such payment shall in no case be less than three times the current annual regular assessment.

2. The applicant shall relinquish any exclusive right that he or it may have by contract or otherwise, to any news or news picture service that is being made available to the applicant at the time of the filing of this application for membership. Furthermore, when requested to do so by any member or members in the field involved, the applicant shall require the said news or news picture services, or any of them to be furnished to such member or members upon the same terms as they are made available to the applicant.

Under the arrangement, the money paid to the corporation would then be paid over to the AP member or members in the field in the city in which the applicant is elected.

Under the proposal, applicants for members may also be elected by the board of directors, when no meeting of the members is in session, in a field in a city where there is no existing membership.

After approving the changes in membership requirements, the members recessed until Tuesday morning.

Ex-Navy Men Can Re-enlist at Rating Held at Discharge

Men who have served previous enlistments in the United States Navy are eligible for re-enlistment at the rating they held at the time of discharge, Chief Petty Officer George Carroll, local recruiting officer, said yesterday.

Provided they can pass the physical examination, Carroll said, ex-Navy men as old as fifty years will be accepted for re-enlistment. Herebefore the age limit had been thirty-five years.

Before the new regulation went into effect, Carroll added, a man who had been out of the navy for eight years could re-enlist, but only with a rating as high as seaman first class, despite the rating he held at the time of his discharge.

Two men left the recruiting station here yesterday for the induction station in Baltimore. They were Charles M. Dicken, Cumberland, Route 3; and John William Monahan, 428 Columbia street.

Sunday three other men left for the induction station. They were Harry W. Hull, Romney, W. Va.; Gerald L. Barb, Rawlings, who went to the Baltimore induction station; and Richard A. Fleck, Keyser, W. Va., who went to the Washington induction station to take a physical examination for flight training.

Henderson's Continuous Assessment Proposal

BRIEF COMMENT was made by The News the other day on remarks made before the Eastern Shore County Commissioners' Association by William L. Henderson, chairman of the state Tax commission, in which he advocated a plan for continuous assessment for the counties.

The News expressed approval of the idea but added the observation that if it contemplated a further wresting of government from local hands for state officials, it was hardly to be commended. It was held that the counties should be able to take care of the assessments under a general rule regulating them for the reason that local people are better able to judge the values of local property than outsiders.

Since then The News has received a copy of the full text of Henderson's address and, as several newspapers reprinted The News's comment, it is only fair to note that in advocating an improved plan of assessment for the counties whereby one-fifth of the property would be revalued each year, he did not contemplate any change with regard to local control.

"There is no doubt in my mind," Henderson said, "that this is the better plan. Review of assessments would then be made by a permanent, instead of a temporary staff, which means that the same method will be applied throughout the county, and a more equal result will be attained. The proposal contemplates that the salary of the local supervisors be increased from the present minimum of about $800 to $1,500, graduated up to a maximum of about $4,000, dependent on the assessable basis, and that assistant assessors be appointed by the state Tax commission from a list submitted by the county commissioners in the same way as the supervisors are now appointed. It may be possible for the supervisor to do the work himself, without assistance, in some of the counties."

A more equitable reassessment is the declared goal of Henderson's plan rather than any desire to increase the assessments. In Frederick county, for example, where the plan has been in effect and has met with general approval, having done a great deal to improve and equalize assessments within the county, the general level of assessments has not been greatly raised. In fact, Henderson noted, Frederick was one of four counties in the state that showed a slight decline on the aggregate assessable basis for 1941.

Further indicating his desire to keep this local work within local hands, Henderson noted that while responsibility for reviewing assessments and making recommendations for changes under the continuous assessment plan would continue to rest with the supervisor and his assistants, every assessment would be subject to review by the county commissioners before it became final, as under existing law. Thus, the authority of the county commissioners would not be affected in any way.

It was proposed in the new plan, however, that an enabling act be passed to authorize the county commissioners in their discretion to appoint a board of review to relieve the county commissioners of this duty, which might not be necessary in most of the counties but which might be desirable in the larger counties. That is reasonable and practicable.

Henderson made a good point with respect to the need for some participation in the assessment work by state officials. "The point has been raised," he said, "that since the state property tax is now so low, relative to the local rates, there is no need for establishing standards or attempting to equalize assessments as between the counties. There are several answers to this.

"In the first place, the plan of continuous assessment is directed primarily at equalizing assessments within each county, where I believe the greatest inequalities exist. In the second place, since the state Tax commission assesses the property of all corporations, it would be grossly unfair if the property of corporations were assessed according to a different standard from the property of firms and individuals, which are assessed locally. Again, since the school equalization fund (fifty-one cents on the local rate) is based upon the aggregate assessable basis in each of the counties, every county has a direct interest in having that basis arrived at by the application of the same standards of value. The same thing is true of aid to dependent children, where each county levies one cent for this purpose."

It is easily seen that property of corporations operating in more than one county should be subjected to an equal standard, and thus it is necessary for some reasonable share of state supervision in assessments.

All in all, Henderson's plan seems fair enough since, as is explained herein, it does not contemplate any removal of local authority now obtaining. He has submitted it to the state Legislative council, which should take favorable action on it, as it doubtless will.

A Constant Incentive For Younger Soldiers

WAR is a laboratory in that it alone can produce positively the ultimate tests of military genius and the ability to command. The generals at the beginning of a protracted conflict seldom fall through the ordeal. The interim is full of blunders and heartaches.

But out of it all — after the Scotts, McClellans, Burnside's, Popes and Hookers — emerge the men of the hour, the Grants, Shermans, Thomases and Sheridans. Bull Run and Verdun were expensive. So was Pearl Harbor. Yet Gettysburg and the Argonne, Wake Island and Bataan eventually were the inspiring climaxes.

This inevitable winnowing and the advancement of those who survive the testing, is a constant incentive to the younger men of the nation's armed forces and the still younger men who are being inducted.

If ever youth had a chance to flower with its knighthood, it is now. War is not an occult art, nor even a static profession any more.

New offensive tactics and weapons call for new defenses to be invented. The fundamentals of war and national policy should be studied by the youth of America as never before. As Prof. Edward Meade Earle, of Princeton, has so aptly said, "Ours is not merely to do and die; ours is also to reason why."

Slower Automobile Speed Brings Results

GRATIFYING, INDEED, is the report made by the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission of a twenty-seven per cent decrease in motor fatalities during March as compared with February.

The decrease continued this month, advance figure showing that only seven fatalities had occurred up to April 20. Hailing this sharp reduction in highway fatalities, Governor O'Connor declared that compliance with a presidential request that speeds be kept below forty miles an hour had been largely responsible.

Certainly everybody can join with the governor's earnest hope "that our drivers will continue to display this same care and caution during the months to come." Let everybody concerned strive to continue this reduction record. If it continues for the remainder of this month, Maryland will have one of the best accident-free months in many years.

If this can be done now, it can be made permanent, war or no war.

Women and the War Industry

AN IDEA of what this country faces merely in the training of war workers if the war lasts several years more may be gathered from the statement of Dr. Evan Davies, a British educational leader now in the United States.

Dr. Davies says British technical colleges—130 of them—have trained hundreds of thousands of war workers in the last two years and the full needs of the armed forces for technicians have been met. Now, he says, the technical colleges are training only women.

A long war will mean that American experience will be similar. More and more American women are already being absorbed in war industry. As time goes on, they may be assured that eventually they will be called upon to take a major role in the production of munitions.

Voluntary technical courses now will preclude the need for compulsory training later.

She Made Me Feel Old

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I sat for an hour and talked to a grandmother. I almost called her "an old lady" but that wouldn't be right because of course she is much younger than I am and younger than most of you.

She came in laughing and she laughed most of the time I was talking to her. . . . This 75-year-old woman, she'd come to see her son, but since her son wasn't there at the moment I had to do until her son returned. So she told me about herself and her life. And, in particular, she told me the story of how she had made her life over when she thought she was lonely and abandoned and unhappy.

She had three sons and she had lived for them alone. But they had all married—she said—and had gone from her. Not really away, of course, but so far away that she couldn't cook for them any more or make their beds or mend their clothes or lie awake until they came in at night. . . . And so, when they went away, she was very unhappy for a while and she didn't know what to do with herself.

For some time, too, she was sorry for herself and sad. And then she realized that she had many more years to live and she couldn't be moaning around. She was Irish and the Irish can't give up.

Did I like her hair? Of course I did, it was GAY. It used to be snowwhite but she'd "done something to it." Did I like her dress? I certainly did! It was young. She had a bright red dress at home, too, and a fur coat. . . . Could I dance? Not very well. She had learned to dance again. She hadn't danced for thirty years, except around her kitchen—when she felt happy. But now she went to dances with her friends. She had many friends and they had good times together. She liked to be with them. I could see they liked being with her. . . . She was really happy again, having a good time. And though she was loving her boys as much as ever, she was really living her own life.

I told her when I said goodbye that I was going to write about her and she said I'd better not. . . . but that if I did, I was to say she was 50 years old. She exaggerated her age—she's not 50, she's somewhere in her early twenties and will never be any older. And I hope she taught me a few things about that simple, gracious art of living happily. She will teach you something, too, if you ever meet that young woman with the gray hair and the young heart.

U-Boat Sinkings In the Atlantic Drop Away Down

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 21.—No news has been good news from the Atlantic lately. Reports of Nazi sinkings dropped off nearly to zero after a peak about three weeks back.

Permanent conclusions are not warranted because announcements of both our losses and German claims are ordinarily delayed a week or two. Yet there are many stories in circulation in shipping quarters — wholly unofficial, of course — suggesting the navy has accomplished decisive results.

One is that thirty German and Italian subs have been sunk by us in the last two weeks. Not many more than this number could have been involved at the peak of the attack.

There is another story about the bodies of twenty Axis seamen retrieved from the waters of the sea and brought for burial to a special plot near one of our Atlantic ports.

Still another (this one is more unofficial) suggests an American fishing vessel, hard at work offshore was suddenly confronted by a rising Nazi periscope. The fishermen expected the worst and were getting ready for it when a German voice, from the now risen conning tower asked if they had any fish for sale.

While negotiations were in progress, under the duress of an imminent torpedo, the Nazis got some fish they did not expect, flying fish. A patrol plane spotted the sub and sank same.

Japs Befuddled

The painful silence of the navy and army after the bombing of Japan was not painful around headquarters. The authorities here enjoyed their best laughs of the war listening to the Tokyo radio.

Obviously the Japs never knew what hit them. First they said the planes were B-26 medium Martins, then B-25 North Americans and on both occasions they acted like they had just seized possession of a hot new secret ship.

Those two planes may be secrets to them, but they are not new. They have been in service for a long time. Perhaps the Japs just did not know they had such range.

Anyway, they first announced the planes came from carriers, then from the Aleutians, next from the Philippines. The only thing they were clear about was that they came from the skies. Three days later they did not appear to know whether the planes were navy or army.

Part of this ethereal fulminating may have been put on to smoke us out, but it was too all-fired serious to be anything except a confession of a break in morale—which, of course, was the purpose of the bombing.

New Terms Wanted

Mr. Roosevelt is displaying a new interest in semantics. First he wanted a new descriptive phrase for the war. Then he wanted another word for inflation.

It is safe to say the search for an adequate adjective for the war did not work out altogether sensationally. "The Survival war" does not dramatize the whole case, nor does any of the others offered.

Phonetically as good as any was one coined by Mort J. Donaghy, a California publicity expert, to whom it seemed to be "War for World Freedom." But that may not fully dramatize Russia's interest in it or China's. It is just too far-fung for adequate pin-pointed description.

But the news that FDR is searching for a substitute for the word inflation, just before sending a message to Congress to stop it, has aroused more than lexicographic interest. The idea suggests FDR has found and is preparing the way for an entirely new conception of what we have and what should be done about it.

Common speech and common thought is along the line that rising prices and economic factors mean inflation and that it should be met by stopping those economic factors arbitrarily. If the president wants to do something new about it.

Freezing Order on Tap

Leon Henderson's organization is known to have prepared an order to freeze prices at the highest levels between February 25 and March 25. This period was selected to nip a few smart fellows who started increasing their prices after March 25 to beat the game. Both wholesale and retail prices would be affected simultaneously.

His legal division is supposed to have decided it has the power to go that far, but does not possess the legal mechanics for handling interest rates, wages, hourly rates of pay, without legislation, and its farm price power is on a flimsy basis.

The only thing certain is that efforts to anticipate the president's message are apt to be wrong.

Dangerous Ground

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligence

The real danger in the present campaign against war profits is not that Congress will fail to prevent profiteering, but that it will so burden industrial enterprise that war production will be impaired and the entire economic system threatened.

We hold no brief for business, big or little. We agree that every effort should be made to prevent anybody or any group from profiting from this war at the expense of others or of the general public. But it should be recognized that industrial enterprise must be kept strong and healthy, just as workmen must be well provided for if our war effort is to succeed.

Industry is expected to provide all of the war materials this great undertaking demands. It is expected to pay workmen good wages. It is expected to provide the government with the major part of the money needed to finance the effort. Yet judging from some of the proposals advanced in the name of checking war profiteering, industry is to be denied the nourishment necessary to sustain it.

It would be well for the gentlemen who decide such things to keep in mind the fact that you can't get both milk and beefsteak from the same cow, for any protracted period.

Anthropologists, assembled at the annual session of the American Association of Physical Anthropology at Harvard are worried about the future of the human race!

And, in view of this war-crazed world, they may have reasons for concern. Anthropology, the dictionary tells us, covers "the science of man in general." That is, it is the anthropologists' job to look into and examine every aspect of human behavior, mental and other wise.

So far, it seems, not even the greatest anthropologists have succeeded in finding out all there is to know about the mysterious creature "man." The human mind remains still the greatest mystery to science. So, also, does blood.

In their quest for explanation, anthropologists have seldom bothered to look into or investigate the blueprint of the Creator of Man—the Bible. In a measure, they are not to be blamed. The curse should attach to those theologians who, throughout many generations, have translated the blueprint to suit either their own fancies, meet political considerations or the requirements of the established creed in whose behalf they are making the translations. The divine, scientific value of the Bible can be found only in the original language.

The Biblical Viewpoint

Let us merely take the topic of "man" from the Biblical point of view. Few people are aware of the fact that the Hebrew language gives us four specific and fundamental terms for "man." They are (1) Ish, (2) Adam, (3) Enosh and (4) Gever. Throughout all the books of the Bible these words are used intermittently. Every existing translation, however, gives but one name for these four words—the abstract term "man." Thus is concealed the true meaning of the original usages.

An understanding of the hidden meaning of these four Biblical designations for man might give the anthropologists not merely a clue, but some great consolation for their perturbation of mind.

The real facts hidden within the ancient Hebrew of the first three chapters of Genesis, in regard to these four terms for man, when properly understood are sufficient to upset the whole anthropological world—including those learned gentlemen of Harvard.

Dr. Ernest A. Hooton, representing the university at the session of the anthropologists, had things to say which assuredly indicate the puzzled and bewildered state of mind of those scientists whose job it is to "explain" men to mankind.

One trouble with this thing called "modern education" is that it makes one so learned as to develop a distinct danger of becoming unintelligent. In fact, the Bible broadly hints as much!

Synthetic Race

However, Dr. Hooton suggested a postwar creation of a "synthetic race of Germanpeople" to consist of non-Germans from other countries of the world. These, he said, would replace the present stock of the Reich, and would be "the only means of preventing recurrence of world-wide conflict."

He spoke of "the realistic wiping out of Germany's present military leaders and their fanatic followers." We agree wholeheartedly. This column has repeatedly emphasized that fact.

But—

Dr. Hooton's suggestion that "subsequent dispersal throughout the world of the rest of the German people, 'from a racial point of view, is not only contradictory to his previous statements, but, if carried out, would ruin the equilibrium of God's creation of different peoples and different nations on earth."

"The inherent militaristic and aggressive spirit of the Prussian-Nazi can be explained. In studying European peoples, anthropologists have a bad habit of never caring to investigate the pre-European status of these peoples. The explanation of not only the Nazi spirit of beastliness, but also the conduct and behavior of other peoples on earth, is available—in the Bible in its original. As a matter of fact, the explanation is made manifest through an understanding of the four ancient Hebrew sources for man: Ish, Adam, Enosh and Gever.

Certainly the Japanese are as treacherous, sneaky and militaristic as the Nazis. Would Professor Hooton also have the Japanese mixed up with the rest of the peoples of the world? I doubt it.

Another Babylon

But our good anthropological professor wants us to create another Babylon. "Let some Czechs, for example," says he, "some Poles, Jugoslavs, Greeks and Scandinavians be intermingled to form something that is not essentially Germanic in the nationalistic sense."

Well, now it seems that we did that very thing right here in the United States, didn't we? We are a mixture of many peoples and the people of the United States of America are as nationalistic as any people on earth. Doesn't an American let the rest of the world know he's an American when he's traveling in foreign lands? Doesn't an American always talk about "back in God's country"? Shucks, Professor, you'll have to do better than that!

"After all," he says, to justify himself in his above words, "the Scandinavians and even some of the British stem from stock that was pure German of pre-historic times—the good stock that existed in Germany before the coming of the Huns."

That's what the anthropologists always love to fall back on—the old fallacy that the British and the Scandinavians are of Teutonic origin. Archeological discoveries indicate otherwise. So does entomology. But best of all the Bible totally refutes them. And since there would be no anthropologists if it hadn't been for the Bible—I prefer the latter as final.

An Absurdity

Dr. Hooton's somewhat hysterical solution to prevent German aggression—scatter the "good" Germans throughout the world, and in Germany set up a new mongrel-breed by bringing in hunks of humanity from neighboring nations, is about as sensible as a man with leprosy plunging into a movie crowd in the hopes that the more people contract the disease, the less he will be himself diseased! Which is, of course, an absurdity!

Not until science goes to the Bible for confirmation of its own "discoveries"—for science deals with cosmic matter and the cosmos of God Himself, can the world expect to make any headway in finding out why certain peoples have certain characteristics and why they do what they have done through

Boost of Laval May Blow Lid Off in France

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Herr Hitler's boost of greatly-disliked Pierre Laval into power at the head of the Vichy French government is spoken of in United Nations diplomatic circles in Washington as perhaps being a very favorable symptom for the democracies.

The reasoning is that while Pierre undoubtedly is completely pro-Nazi, he's too obviously so to suit the Fuehrer's purpose in France, and that the latter must be seriously worried, by something or other, to have hoisted him above Marshal Petain's head at the present juncture. The best guess is that discontent in the countries he's now in control of has become so formidable that he had to risk overdoing matters, in an effort to keep the lid on. But perhaps, it's surmised, substitution of Pierre for the old marshal, as boss at Vichy, will prove to be the very thing that'll simply BLOW IT off, so far as France is concerned. And if that happens in France, what a heck of an encouragement it'll be, to remark commentators, to Norway, Denmark, Poland, Yugoslavia and Holland to boil over also!

Maybe Italy will anti-Axisly explode, too, some of 'em think.

Labor Trouble

Reports reach here of trouble Adolf's having even with quite a few of his own Germans.

Sizable riots are rumored to have occurred among workmen in Berlin's industrial suburbs and at the big factory towns of Essen. In fact, there are stories of two or three military mutinies, the soldiers yowling that they're underfed and want to quit fighting. Accounts from Germany itself mention the arrest of several army officers and of Herr Himmler's agents. It's "going some," democratic observers congratulate themselves, if the Gestapo's developing anti-Nazism.

Right on the heels of the announcement of Pierre Laval's elevation to supremacy (subject to Adolf's super-supremacy) at Vichy came news of a Free French outbreak, accomplished by street warfare, at St. Nazaire. Hostages, it was related, were slaughtered wholesale. The Germans themselves proclaimed it, as a warning.

Marshal Petain apparently wasn't vigorous enough.

Count in Favor

That up to a certain point, was a count in his favor with Herr Hitler. A lot of the French regarded him as one of themselves and, as long as they stayed quiet, it paid Adolf to avoid putting 'em on the rampage by naming a well recognized and widely hated and despised pro-Nazi (meaning Pierre) to totalitarianize 'em. When they showed signs of actually returning to the warpath, though, he appears to have felt that he'd better adopt 100 per cent measures.

Information concerning the Axis's internals is skimpy naturally, due to the censorship.

Still, Berlin does give out a bit of it, that it really wants circulated. Illustratively, in notifying a subjugated people that the Nazis'll kill about half of 'em, if they don't discontinue assassinations at every opportunity, sabotage, guerrilla tactics and miscellaneous annoyances, they like to have it widely known what their program is in order to scare the prospective victims nearly to death. Well, these broadcasts have been scattered by the realm lately, and the inference is that they wouldn't be required if the simmerings weren't Nazisly regarded as ominous, from their angle. Norway's had 'em in any quantity, and Denmark and the Balkans and the Low Countries. Now France is getting ITS contribution.

Germany Fears Invasion

The impression in Washington is that Germany's apprehensive of an Anglo-American landing in western continental Europe and is desperately anxious to prevent the conquered continentals from fanning up on their hind legs simultaneously, and are taking a chance on Pierre, hoping it'll do the business.

Contrariwise, the democracies are trusting in providence that Nazi nervousness is justified.

There's only one thing that democratic strategy is slightly fearful of. It doesn't want temporarily vanquished Europe to start its anti-Nazi activities too soon. It doesn't want 'em to begin before the Anglo-American invasion is launched, and be licked in advance of it. It wants 'em to pop at just the right minute—co-ordination.

There's some talk of an attempt to put a hush on the explosion until all hands are ready to put a match to the fuse, and then blow the Axis skyhigh at precisely the right psychological moment.

Successive generations and thousands of years of time. Not being an anthropologist, it is safe for me to suggest that anthropology can provide a large share of self-instruction by starting at Genesis. Then its members won't make themselves a trifle foolish suggesting all the Nazis left alive after the war be scattered around in the U. S. and elsewhere, and be bred like rabbits—or pigs—to our American womanhood, as a solution to the Nazi problem.

SYNOPSIS

Three young airline hostesses, TIBBY LANE, sweet and natural; STEENA WINTERS, beautiful and sophisticated; and MARG BAKER, plain, sturdy and direct, share an apartment together in New York, where they are based. A friend of Tibby's, TOMMY DARE, is spending his first year out of medical school at a clinic in Brooklyn.

CHAPTER TWO

TIBBY WAS glad, after the apartment turned out to be so attractive, that she had decided to go in with Marg and Steena. Certainly it was going to be much nicer than a furnished room; she dismissed any doubts she might have had as to the advisability of this triangle. Tibby felt sure that she could get along with her, too. She might even come to like Steena very much after she got to know her. Tibby usually liked people, if they would let her.

The two-and-a-half rooms, as Marg had described them, consisted of an enormous living room, one end of which was used for dining, a good-sized bedroom and bath and a tiny kitchen that was really little more than a glorified electric closet. It certainly had all the modern "gadgets" that Marg had mentioned, as well.

The furniture all belonged to Steena, or rather to Steena's mother who, Tibby gathered, had married—for the third time—and had left in storage enough household goods to supply several apartments. The pieces were a bit massive and ornate for such small quarters, but they lent an air of luxury that was most impressive; huge carved chests, deep-cushioned chairs, a Japanese desk, teakwood tables, oriental rugs.

Surprisingly it was Marg who contributed the linens. They did not quite live up to the other furnishings, but they were all new and unused and were painstakingly laundered and sacheted.

"You must have been collecting and saving these for years!" Steena had said, upon seeing the stacks of white sheets and cases and the wide variety of towels from thick Turkish and embroidered guest towels down to gay kitchen ones.

"So I must," Marg had returned. There was that same fierce note in her tone that Tibby had heard before. "That's why it's time to make use of them," she had added grimly. "Help yourselves, gals—they're all yours."

Tibby had not liked the way she had said that, either. It was as if in giving away these particular belongings, Marg was making a deliberate end to something that went with them.

Why, of course! They must have been in her hope chest. Her hopes, then, went with them. Marg must have been disappointed in love. That would explain why she was so bitter when it came to men, so armored in her hard shell, Tibby was sorry, but Marg ought not let one man, one disappointment, spoil her life.

However, even Steena, who may have guessed about the hope chest, too, did not make any comment. Whatever had happened was Marg's own business. If she did not want to talk about it, that was her business, too.

"I wish you'd let me buy the curtains," Tibby said. She wanted to do her share. Otherwise it would not seem as if her third belonged to her. Already it was more Steena's apartment than the others'. Not just because of the furnishings, but because that was Steena's way. Although Tibby supposed she could not help it that she liked to do the arranging and give out the orders.

"Go ahead," Steena said. She conceded the curtains now, with a gracious, careless gesture of one long-tipped, scarlet-nailed hand. "Curtains bore me. Do whatever you like about them. There ought to be some drapes in the trunk down in the locker that you might be able to utilize somehow."

Tibby was afraid that if they matched the furniture, that they would not do. They probably would be damask or velvet or some heavy stuff material. Curtains did not bore Tibby. She thought they could make, or ruin, a home.

Apparently Marg thought so, too, after Tibby had shopped and altered and basted and pressed and finally hung every curtain in its proper place.

"The feminine touch," Marg said. "You've got it, Tibby my pet. Now this conglomeration looks like a spot in which to relax instead of a set in a store window. When I wake up in the morning to see sunlight streaking through those yards and yards of sheer rosy stuff I'll think I've landed by some mistake, in heaven. I like those fluffy ruffles in the kitchen. Imagine having bright red strawberries served with every meal! They are berries in the print, aren't they? And as for the living room—well, you've achieved a back-drop worthy of even our Steena's ravishing charms."

Tibby smiled at such lavish praise, but the heavy gold drapes, which she had found in the trunk after her dismay at the amount new ones would cost, had turned out all right. Instead of hanging them straight, she had put only one to each window, draping it across the top and caught back at one side with a heavy cord. The effect was dramatic as well as pleasing.

Steena said, "Now what we need is someone to see what a nice background we've got."

Of course she meant some man, one who counted, that millionaire she meant to catch, no doubt.

Steena did not make any secret of her private affairs, as did Marg. Her past, about which she loved to talk, outlining its many conquests, was an open book; per present was filled with adventure each day—this man had smiled at her, that one who had been bold enough to try to date her, some other who had begged for an introduction soon. But her future was the most important of all. Because of its bright promise the present was well guarded, the past had been wary. Steena set a high value on her charms, as well she might. Such beauty as hers deserved the highest bidder.

"We'll have to have an understanding about the living room," Steena said, drawing her finely arched brows together in an imperious little frown. "When one of us has a guest it should be tacitly agreed that the other two stay out."

"You can count me out all right," Marg said. "I prefer the kitchen to the living room any time, even if this one has only elbow space. It also contains the ice box, which means food, and I can sit on the stove or curl up in the sink."

"I didn't mean you had to go to those extremes," Steena said coolly. Tibby already had discovered that Steena lacked any sense of humor. Since even Marg's irony was tinged with it she still marveled that these two girls got along so well. The attraction of opposites, maybe. If you didn't want to go to bed you could take a walk," Steena suggested.

"Lady, I'm too dog-tired to walk after I come in from a run. I'm almost too tired to sleep," Marg said. "And I thought this job was going to be a cinch compared with nursing! But of course, being me, I've drawn the worst hours, the toughest weather, and the crankiest passengers so far. But when those prospects start rolling in, Steena, I'll get out from under. You know I always run the other way when I see anything in pants heading my direction—even when I know he won't so much as glance at insignificant me."

"I like to turn in early," Tibby said. She had found, too, that she was pretty well tired out when she checked in. It was a good, satisfied tiredness. And she did like to keep up with her rest in order to be fit; she liked to read until she got so sleepy the book fell out of her hands.

Steena said, gracious again, "Help yourself to my share of the bed whenever I have company." Tibby's share was the day-bed, as Marg had said it would be.

"I suppose she can tumble out when you climb in," Marg said dryly. "That wouldn't bother me, as I can walk in my sleep and never know it until someone tells me. But you might keep it in mind, Steena my love, and send your B. F.'s home at a reasonable hour."

Steena shrugged her lovely, expressive shoulders. "I never let a man stay overtime. It's not good policy." She had all the rules set when it came to men, but the first man to visit the apartment did not come to see Steena.

American Helps Nazi Prisoners To Escape

DETROIT, April 21 (P)—Escape of a German army combat pilot from an officers' concentration camp in Canada was made possible through co-operation of Max Stephan, German-born proprietor of a Detroit restaurant, the FBI has revealed.

Stephan, a naturalized American citizen, admitted giving the German flier food and money and arranging his transportation out of Detroit Sunday morning, John S. Bugas, Detroit FBI chief, declared. The flier, Peter Krug, 21-year-old lieutenant in the German air force, escaped from the camp April 16 with a companion, Erich Bohle, 26, also a lieutenant. Bohle was recaptured the following day at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Krug, still at large, is believed trying to make his way back to Germany by way of Mexico and South America, Bugas said.

Stephan was arraigned before U. S. commissioner J. Stanley Hurd this afternoon on a charge of unlawfully concealing and harboring an alien.

A mathematical "thinking" machine, which solves problems in arithmetic, algebra and trigonometry quicker than a trained mathematician, was called the Triantist by its inventor, Barrett R. Wellington, of Troy, N. Y.

Asks for Increase in Tomato Production

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 21 (P)—An increased demand for tomatoes and the shortage of labor this year necessitates efficient production methods in order to insure maximum yields with minimum labor costs.

A bulletin written by Dr. C. H. Mahoney, head of the University of Maryland horticulture department, and Herman A. Hunter, university extension service crop-canning specialist, said that 54,800 acres of tomatoes were grown in the state in 1941, and that 6,900 acres were grown for market.

Soil types, rotations, fertilization, soil preparation, transplanting, cultivation and control of cutworms were suggested as better production means.

The Maryland pack in 1941 was 6,667,888 cases, the bulletin announced, while income from the canning acreage was $5,953,000. Market acreage income was $762,000.

Continental Congress's order forming a marine corps in 1775 called for two battalions of 1,200 men; today there are 84,591 marines.

Auxiliary Police Are 'Graduated' At Frostburg

Seventy-five Men Complete Twenty-six Hour Civil Defense Course

Seventy-five members of Frostburg's auxiliary police corps Monday night completed a twenty-six-hour course in first aid, fire and gas protection and practical police work. It was announced by Police Chief Benjamin H. Thomas, who heads this civilian defense organization.

Commenting on the organization and praising its personnel, Chief Thomas said that with this group to augment the regular police force, lives and property in Frostburg will be adequately protected in the event of any emergency.

The final class was featured by a novel procedure designated to teach the auxiliary policemen the technique of presenting cases in court should the need arise. Trial Magistrates Owen L. Porter and Joseph N. Feldman were on hand to assist and offered constructive criticism as each man stepped forward to outline an imaginary case.

Instructor for the course was Corp. H. C. Carl, of the Maryland State Police, civilian defense liaison officer for Allegany and Garrett counties.

Guy Turner is a patient in Allegany hospital, Cumberland. Turner is suffering from a broken leg, which he received while working on the Davis-Miller saw mill near Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Perrin, and Ruth Perrin, spent Sunday afternoon, visiting Mrs. Minnie Hardinger, and Edith and Howard Harding, near Centenary, on Bedford road.

Mrs. Bell Street, life-long resident of this community, is ill at the home of her son, Robert Street.

Hyndman Personals

HYNDMAN, April 21 — Mrs. Walter Wright, Alum Bank, Pa., spent Sunday visiting her mother, Mrs. Nettie Harclerode, and her sister, Miss Grace Harclerode.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ahlborn were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson, Keyser.

he would go to report for duty and said he did not know what ship he would be assigned to, "but I leave Friday and you can bet I'll be at sea again soon," he said.

Reising is spending his furlough with his mother, Mrs. Charles Jewell, 500 Holland street.

Enlisted Jan. 7, 1941. He enlisted in the navy January 7, 1941, after working at the Celanese plant for a short while. He was graduated from LaSalle high school in 1940 and attended elementary school at St. Patrick's and at St. Peter and Paul's.

"I was in the Macassar Straits battle, too," Reising said, "but I was in the engine room then, too, and could only tell you what you have already read in the papers. And I was in Pearl Harbor December 7 when the Japanese started all of this."

Asked for some description of either of the battles, Reising said, "you don't see much of what is going on from the engine room."

"All I can say is that every man was in there pitching and hoping for the best. During the Macassar engagement, we were on duty eighteen hours and we spent close to thirty-six hours on duty in the Java sea battle before we were finally sunk. I think we were at sea about seven-seventy days altogether, and land sure did look good."

"But that sea is going to look just as good when I get back," Reising said smiling. "I wanted to see my mother and friends and now I'm ready to go back."

more than mere token bombings. Such attacks, which Byrd said he believed would be all to expect, are not likely for the simple reason that they would not be worth the cost.

But, if the enemy has any sense at all, and it must be granted that he has, he will bomb us where it will hurt greatly and cost much. Byrd declared from a concentration of aircraft carriers, it is possible and not at all improbable, he said, for a huge fleet of planes to attack our war plants, shipyards, transportation facilities and military objectives at a cost perhaps of billions. For this we must prepare, he said, and we cannot prepare too quickly or too thoroughly.

Students are also being trained for work in the various war industries, where technical training is required, not only at College Park but also at Hagerstown, Baltimore and elsewhere in the state, it was noted.

President Byrd predicted that girls will ultimately be drafted for war work, in view of which it is necessary that they be trained for it now.

Training is also being given at College Park for officers in the army, the navy and the marine corps, Byrd noted, adding that the R. O. T. C. training there had been developed to the point where it is regarded as among the strongest and best given anywhere in the country.

Medical training is an important branch of the war preparation at the university, Byrd noted. Already the university has sent two completely equipped hospital units into the army.

Must Have Trained Leaders

College Park has pioneered in a branch of education Byrd deems highly important both for the war program and for the post-war reconstruction period, that of a geopoitical department. Herein the nation has been sadly negligent, Byrd declared, in view of the attention the Nazis and other enemy countries have given to foreign trade essentials.

The whole war program at College Park is being based upon the will to win, Byrd declared, regardless of what sacrifices and costs may come. Victory can come only with an efficient marshalling of effort by properly trained men and women, he said, along with the concentration of the nation's vast material resources.

The university president is an active Rotarian, having organized the Rotary club at College Park, of which he was its first president.

Cumberland Man Gets Parole Hearing Today

ANNAPOLIS, April 21 (AP)—Cases of fifty-nine Mary and convicts will be reviewed tomorrow by Parole Director Herman M. Moser, including a second hearing for Louis Mathews Edwards, Cumberland, serving ten years for robbery.

Moser said Edwards' case was first reviewed in June, 1940, and refused because he felt the convict would benefit from additional penitentiary supervision. Edwards was sentenced by the Allegany County Circuit Court in February, 1937, following a series of Cumberland robberies.

Parole will be considered for Mary Stevenson, sentenced to three years in the women's prison last year by the Frederick County Circuit Court. She was tried on false pretense charges. Five other women also will receive parole consideration tomorrow, Moser said.

Of the fifty-nine scheduled, thirty-five concern House of Correction inmates.

39 this year; the roads and bridges appropriations, slashed from $130,000 to $100,000; and the tax collector's fund, cut from $44,243.57 to $17,463.92.

Major increases were in the school budget, which showed a jump of $75,844.28; the debt bond account, which was hiked $40,000; election expenses, which increased $17,170, from $12,830 to $30,000; the county home and infirmary, from $21,000 to $27,000; the debt bond coupon account, from $147,552.50 to $154,377.50; general public assistance, from $43,537.08 to $45,450; and old age pensions, from $29,101.20 to $32,859.40. Also in the budget is a new item, $5,000 for maintenance of the County Office building, formerly the Union Street school.

Other Income

The tax rate of $1.38, levied against an assessable basis of $94,000,000, is scheduled to yield $1,297,200, a figure supplemented by $379,070.93, representing the aggregate of unexpended balances from the previous levy; $6,000, bank stock tax; $2,000, corporation franchise tax; $7,920, due from state for maintenance of the insane; $14,000, estimated amount of interest on taxes; $15,000, estimated revenue from liquor license; $65,620, from state roads commission for bond retirement; $1,000, from board of education to apply on school loan of 1936; $10,000, county's allocation of state income tax; $1,600, anticipated receipts from county jail; $2,000, anticipated receipts from magistrates; $3,000, anticipated receipts from People's court; and $4,000, anticipated receipts from paid patients in state hospitals, to equal expected expenditures of $1,808,410.93.

The state tax rate, which is fixed by statute, amounts to $1.14 per $100, compared to $2,335 last year. Thus the total state and county tax rate for 1942 is $1.32, compared to $1.6635 last year.

A circuit court jury yesterday returned a verdict for the defendant in the $2,000 damage suit of Worthington L. Kline against Charles W. Yergan.

Ursula Hartman Tops City League Bowlers

Ursula Hartman, of the Savoy team, with an average of 132 for eighty-six games, was the leading bowler in the City Ladies' Bowling League during the 1942 season.

Miss Hartman finished one pin in front of Leona Robertson, also of the Savoy, who wound up the campaign with a 131 mark for eighty-three tilts.

Elsie McKee of Cresaptown's Silver Lanes was third with 130 while Blanche Myers of the champion SS. Peter and Paul team was fourth with 129, followed by Vivian Walsh with 127.

Pauline Clont of the Roxy rank up the highest individual game—214, and Blanche Myers' 546 set was a season record. The Savoy topped 742 ticks for the high game count while the high team set of 2,036 was posted by the Saints.

Cresaptown Bowlers Win County Rolloff

A lead of 361 pins they piled up in the first half of the Allegany County Bowling League rolloff match with Barton stood the Cresaptown Silver Lanes in good stead as they lost the second set of five games at Barton by five sticks but copped the championship by a margin of 356 maps.

Opening the ten-game rolloff at Cresaptown, the Silver Lanes scattered 3,907 pins to Barton's 3,546 with Everett Clem hitting 221-870 for the victors and Bullock and Wilson each 756 for Barton.

At Barton, the home club paced by Fagan's 205-909, toppled 4,020 sticks to Cresaptown's 4,015. Clem again sparked the Silver Lanes, this time with 932, including games of 230 and 203.

Red Sox, Enroute To Capital, Leave Six Players Home

BOSTON, April 21 (AP)—Six Boston Red Sox players, three of them ailing, were left behind tonight as the team enroute for Washington for a brief two-day series before returning to Fenway Park for a long home stand.

Jimmy Fox, whose sinus trouble has been kicking up lately, also is bothered by a tooth from which a nerve was removed yesterday. Lou Finney likewise is troubled by a sinus condition and Charlie Wagner, who was listed to start today's postponed game, has a cold. Tony Lupien will handle Fox's first base assignment in the two games at the capital while Oscar Judd and Yank Terry have been named for the pitching duties.

Dick Newsome, Ken Chase and Joe Dobson, three hurlers who worked Sunday and Monday, are the other three excused from the trip.

Can You Win Freedom From Constipation?

Too many folks go on suffering from constipation when there's no need in the world for them to do so! Why? Simply because one of the commonest causes of constipation is lack of "bulk food" in the diet. In such cases, cathartics and purges can give only temporary relief!

If this is your trouble, you can expect lasting relief from constipation—simply by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. This crisp, delicious cereal supplies the "bulk" you may need—gets at the cause of your trouble and corrects it. Start eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN today and drink plenty of water. See what a wonderful difference it makes when you correct the cause instead of trying to "remedy" the result! ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, it's wise to see a doctor.

Many Kinds of Symptoms May Reveal Unstable Colon, Dr. Clendening Says

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
The unstable colon has been suggested by Dr. John Kantor as a better name than the irritable colon.

on or colitis for the form of functional digestive disease which is a combination of a general feeling of abdominal discomfort with localized symptoms in the large intestine.

At least thirty-five per cent of the patients who come to a large clinic for digestive diseases, it has been reported by Dr. Sara Jordan, have nervous disturbances for which treatment of the colon is the outstanding requirement.

Everybody, including the patient, realizes that a great deal of the trouble caused by this condition is due to a nervous makeup but it is also true that in most cases there is some localized spot or physical condition which is in the digestive tract, and unless this is corrected all the psychology in the world is wasted and ineffective.

The patient with an unstable colon has usually abused himself with the habitual use of drugs, particularly cathartics, faddy diets, overwork, lack of recognition of the necessity for a period of rest and a continual jumping from one form of treatment to another, depending upon the advice given him by different neighbors. None of these patients seem to realize that their colons are individuals themselves, and that what was good for an old lady who died in Yarmouth, Massachusetts, in 1870, is not necessarily good for them.

Symptoms

The symptoms of this form of digestive disorder are predominantly abdominal distress and distension. This makes everybody feel at some time or another that they should have a cathartic and most of them are habitual cathartic users. The fact that this makes the colon more unstable and more irritable is something that they do not take the trouble to analyze.

Distension is associated with gas distress and usually occurs regularly after meals. Almost always this is due to some localized form of irritation. Nausea and vomiting occur in a very small percentage of cases; in a few have diarrhoea. The constipation complained of by these patients, when analyzed, usually means that they have been taking laxatives over a period of years until they are dependent on them.

Puzzling Thing

The puzzling thing to the physician about these patients is that he can usually find nothing to account for their symptoms. They are seldom underweight, their blood is unchanged, they have no recognized or standard disease, the x-ray shows no change in the rate of stomach or intestinal movement, except occasionally when they are in acute distress.

The treatment is principally directed toward relieving tension, getting them out of the cathartic habit and putting them on a diet which suits their particular and individual colon.

People write and ask me for a diet for colitis. There is no diet for colitis that suits everybody and the proper diet has to be found by a patient and his physician. Of course, the diet should be easily digestible and non-irritating, well-cooked and chewed and eaten under calm circumstances which leave the mind free.

Improved Buying Aids Continued Climb of Market from Nine-Year Low

Recovery Is Interrupted at Intervals by Heaviness of Some Stocks

By BERNARD S. O'HARA

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP)—Stocks continued to reach for higher levels today under slightly improved buying prompted by the market's turn after reaching nine-year lows last Friday. The recovery swing was interrupted at intervals by heaviness of American Telephone, du Pont and Allied Chemical.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up 2 of a point at the close. Transactions totaled 270,250 shares compared with 240,000 yesterday.

Stocks ending with modest gains included General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Douglas, United Aircraft, Curtiss-Wright, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville and Eastman Kodak. In the curb principal interest centered on Brewster Aeronautical which weakened Monday on the navy's action in taking over the company's plants. Today it closed higher on a substantial turn-over. Curb transactions were around 39,000 shares.

A selected group of rails and industrials moved up fractions to around a point in the bond market while depressing influences were at work among the utilities and movements were narrow and irregular in other departments. The day's total sales amounted to $7,329,300, par value, against $5,601,600 on Monday. Issues ending comfortably in the plus side included Northern Pacific at 30 3/4, New Haven Convertibles at 32 1/2, St. Louis Public Service at 84 1/2, St. Paul at 16 1/2, Chesapeake and Ohio at 3 1/2, Southern Pacific at 31.

Seventy-Second Annual Jr. OUAM Convention Under Way

State Officers Will Be Elected This Morning

Andrew J. Ruppel Is Principal Speaker at Opening Session

FROSTBURG, April 21—The seventy-second annual convention of the Junior Order United American Mechanics of Maryland opened here Tuesday morning, 9 o'clock, in Junior Order hall, Broadway, with W. E. Ross, a former resident of Midland, now serving in the United States Navy as chief boatswain's mate, Portsmouth, Va., presiding.

Mayor Olin Gunneth, who was presented by A. Charles Stewart, made the address of welcome and Stewart responded on behalf of Mountain City Council, No. 11, and Freedom Council, No. 123 this city, who are the convention hosts.

The principal address of the morning session was made by Andrew J. Ruppel, New York, past national councilor. Following the address, the regular nomination for state officers took place, and Baltimore was selected for the meeting place of the 1943 convention.

Steffey Unopposed

Daniel J. Steffey, Baltimore, was nominated without opposition for the office of state councilor. There will be a number of competing candidates for all other elective offices to be chosen at the morning session Wednesday.

The appointive officers named to serve for the ensuing year were Richard H. Williams, Midland, a member of the order for fifty years, state conductor; J. W. Wilson, Annapolis, state warden; J. E. Snyder, Baltimore, state inside sentinel; P. Keller, Cumberland, state outside sentinel, and G. E. Smith, Frederick, state chaplain.

The afternoon meeting was devoted to a memorial service for members of the order who died during the past year. The reports submitted at the morning business session showed a substantial growth of the order during the past year with a membership of almost 2,000 in Allegany county alone.

52 Delegates Attend

The convention opened with an attendance of fifty-two accredited delegates, which is about one third of the total number. The small attendance from distant parts of the state was explained by state officers as due to the necessity for keeping men at work on war production as the automobile tire shortage, which has cut down the use of motor cars.

The convention delegates were entertained this evening with a social given at Mt. Savage by Jennings Run Council, No. 15.

Two Policemen Named in Keyser

Council Approves Mayor's Appointment of Dawson and Rotruck

KEYSER, W. Va., April 21—The Keyser city council, in regular session today, approved Mayor John C. Freeland's appointment of Raymond Dawson as patrolman on the local police force and authorized the appointment of Andrew Rotruck as a patrolman. Dawson will assume his duties immediately, and Rotruck will go on duty May 1.

The council's appointment of Rotruck marked a victory for the mayor, who for the past two years has been endeavoring to secure authorization for the appointment of an additional policeman to the Keyser force.

The naming of Rotruck raises the number of Keyser's policemen from three to four—a chief and three patrolmen. Freeland said this evening that he was "looking forward to the most efficient police department that Keyser ever had."

The force consists of Raymond Murray, chief; Harry Gift and Raymond Dawson, patrolmen. Andrew Rotruck will be the third patrolman after the first of next month.

"Kings Row" Brings Great Novel to Life

"Kings Row," the eagerly-awaited film version of the Henry Bellamann novel, has been scheduled by the Liberty theater, to open there on Friday. Ann Sheridan, Robert Cummings, Ronald Reagan and Betty Field are starred and the featured cast is headed by Charles Coburn, Judith Anderson, Claude Rains, Nancy Coleman, Maria Ouspenskaya, Harry Davenport and Kaaren Verne.

The apparently humdrum small city of the American midlands, wherein all human passions and prejudices are encompassed in small space, has not often been used by the novelists or the movie makers as the locale for their product.

"Kings Row" dared to be different. It represents a frank unmasking of such a town, with the resultant high drama and the comedy pathos and excitement that always are to be found there.

This is the story of young people struggling to find their happiness against the opposition of circumstance and misunderstanding. The background of the story is the settling undercurrent of small city life, the petty jealousies, the pathetic struggle for survival, the clash of ideas and ideals between individuals and generations.

It is particularly the story of two romances, one between Ann Sheridan, playing Randy Monaghan, and Ronald Reagan, as Drake McHugh, and the other a three-way affair first between Robert Cummings as Parris Mitchell and Betty Field as Cassandra Tower and later, after Cassie dies, between Cummings and Kaaren Verne as Elsie Sandor.

Woven into the intricate tale of these lives and loves is the whole parcel and pattern of small city doings, the back-fence gossip, the whispered accusations, the high spots of love and sacrifice that go to make up life in any typical American community. It is, however, not merely an expose of the dark places in such a city. It is

BETWEEN SCENES OF "RIO RITA"

Abbott and Costello are just as funny off the screen as on, as indicated by the grin on Director S. Sylvan Simon's face as he listens to a joke between scenes of M-G-M's "Rio Rita," which starts today at the Maryland theater.

high drama that develops to a thunderous climax but leaves overtones of hope and courage as to the ability of young people to meet and overcome their troubles.

Studio Builds "Ship" For "The Fleet's In"

Paramount was faced with a large-scale construction program right in its own studio, when "The Fleet's In," new all-star comedy with music now at the Strand theater, was being prepared for filming.

One of the big problems confronting the studio was how to construct a huge "battleship" with the limited amount of materials available due to priorities. Another problem was one of space, for the giant musical already required more space for its sets than had ever been allotted to any previous picture.

One of the principal settings in the picture is a huge dance hall, in which the stars, Dorothy Lamour, William Holden and Eddie Bracken must have plenty of room to cavort, together with Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra and hundreds of extras.

To conserve metals, ingenious carpenters devised a way of giving a finish to papier mache that made it gleam like bright metal. Practically the only metals used were nails. Yet there is an atmosphere of complete realism about the "battleship" that was built.

Comedy Team Reaches New Hilarity High

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello celebrated their twelfth year together in a highly explosive comedy called "Rio Rita," which opens today at the Maryland theater.

The picture has nice balance, with Kathryn Grayson and John Carroll providing colorful romance and song. An amusing plot affords a reasonable background for the comedians, if one were needed, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer gave the vehicle elaborate production touches.

Eros Volusia, famous Brazilian dancer, makes her screen debut in a series of novel rhythms, including the Samba, which she created. This adds to the variety of the production, which unquestionably gives Abbott and Costello the stellar vehicle of their career as a comedy team.

Miss Grayson, M-G-M's most promising singing discovery, who recently scored in "The Vanishing Virginian," again reveals a delightful personality, and brings her rich voice to the screen in two duets with Carroll, "The Ranger's Song" and "Long Before You Came Along," and a solo version of "The Shadow Song" from Dinorah. Carroll sings the theme song, "Rio Rita."

An able supporting cast included Patricia Dane, Tom Conway, Arthur Space, Peter Whitney and Dick Rich, who portray a group of spies highly perturbed by the antics of Abbott and Costello.

"Hopalong Cassidy" Returns to Embassy

Paramount's latest "Hopalong Cassidy" action romance, "Outlaws of the Desert," which opens tomorrow at the Embassy theater, promises to top all previous productions in this exciting series of western thrillers.

Just completed at the studios of Harry Sherman, Hollywood's outstanding producer of western entertainment and pioneer of outdoor spectacle drama, "Outlaws of the Desert" is said to be a most unusual film, both in story material and photography.

For one thing, the action takes place in one of the most colorful outposts of civilization—the mysterious desert of far-off Arabia. Natives who wield knives and swords with the accuracy and timing of a vaudeville juggler; alluring harem girls in exotic dances; wild desert tribes led by outlaw chiefs lurking behind sand dunes ready to pounce on the unsuspecting traveler; and sheiks who live in regal splendor and rule their oases paradise with supreme power over life and death. This is the background which supplies "Hopalong," played by William Boyd as usual, with his greatest film venture.

Assigned by the United States Army Remount Service to purchase thoroughbred Arabian horses and transport them back to America, "Hoppy" and his inseparable saddle cronies, Andy "California" Clyde and singing rodeo champ Brad King, find themselves up to their ears in desert war with outthroat bandits.

There were 300,000 cattle in the American colonies in the year 1639.

SAILOR STAR

William Holden, who scored successfully in the uniform of an Uncle Sam warbird in "I Wanted Wings," takes to the high seas in the new Paramount laugh and melody hit, "The Fleet's In," now at the Strand theater, starring Dorothy Lamour and Eddie Bracken.

AHS and Fort Hill Tankmen Clash Tonight

West Side Crew Hopes To Regain City Swim Title

Sentinels, Captained by Hixson, Seek Third Straight Crown

The fourteenth annual Cumberland interscholastic championship aquatic meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A. will find Coach Eugene "Jack" Hopkins' Allegheny high swimmers trying to lift the crown won by Fort Hill high's swimmers and divers the past two years.

The Campobello hopes rest heavily on five veterans — Jimmy Hines, Glen Stewart, Milnor Oswald, Paul Paupel and Harold McDaniels — and newcomers Forrest Hite, Clark Dixon, Joe Dixon, William Bartlett, Glenn Twigg and Billy Merrett.

Coach Hopkins announced last night that Hines and Hite will probably represent Allegheny in the forty-yard free style dash, Clark Dixon and Stewart in the forty-yard breaststroke, Oswald and Paupel in the forty-yard backstroke, Joe Dixon and Bartlett in the 100-yard free style dash, and Twigg and McDaniels, Merrett or Stewart in the diving.

Hixson Is Sentinel Captain
Allegheny's No. 1 relay teams will be Oswald, Clark Dixon and Hines in the 120-yard medley with Oswald swimming the backstroke, Dixon the breaststroke and Hines free style, and Hines, Hite, McDaniels and Oswald or Stewart in the 160-yard free style.

The sturdy West Side squad held its final workout last night in the "Y" pool while Fort Hill, coached this year by "Bobby" Cavanaugh, completed practice Monday evening.

The Sentinel squad of a dozen boys or so will be captained by Eugene Hixson with Joe Keeser as manager. Allegheny Coach Hopkins said last night that he may name Campobello captain before the start of the meet. Fort Hill's list of entries follows:

Forty-yard free style dash — Dave Hensell and Eugene Ferguson.
Forty-yard breaststroke — Ray Baker and Tom Minke.
Forty-yard backstroke — Eugene Hixson and Billy Price.
100-yard free style dash — Leslie Brinkman and Hensell.

Diving — Jackie Boden and Paul Malampy.
120-yard medley relay — Hixson, Minke and Jack Breakiron and Price, Baker and Ferguson.
LaSalle Won't Compete
160-yard free style relay — Hensell, Ferguson, Breakiron and Hixson and Baker, Harold Rice, Brinkman and Ralph Winner.

Fort Hill has alternates in Warren Johnson, Robert Blake, Charles Wilson and Austin Twigg.
Fort Hill holds six of the seven records but Allegheny has won the meet nine of thirteen times. LaSalle, which has taken part in only a half-dozen meets, won't be a contender this year. The Explorers never won a title and finished second only once.

The United States Navy has taken three of Fort Hill's top performers of last year who would have been eligible this spring. They are Billy Lynch, Blakely Martin and Jack Ginniman. All three volunteered their services.

Both Ginniman and Lynch set records last year, the former in the 100-yard free style event and Lynch in diving. However, Cavanaugh has five veterans in Hixson, Breakiron, Price, Baker and Price.

Hyndman Wallops Schellsburg, 19-6

Coach Roscoe Wareham's Tossers Ring Up Third Win of Season

HYNDMAN, Pa., April 21—Opening with a ten-run barrage in the first inning and driving out a total of twenty hits, Coach Roscoe Wareham's Hyndman high baseball team walloped Schellsburg high tossers 19-6 here this afternoon.

The victory was Hyndman's third in four starts this season and gives the local outfit a sweep of the two-game series. Friday, the Wareham-coached crew will open its Tri-State interscholastic conference campaign by entertaining Allegheny of Cumberland, Md.

Hyndman scored its ten runs in the first frame on nine hits and then added four counters in the third on as many blows and five markers in the sixth on five hits. Schellsburg tallied three times in the first, once in the second and twice in the seventh and final frame.

Glenn Evans, Roy Evans, Himes and Rizer each collected three singles for the winners with Hollar and W. Harden contributing doubles and the only extra-base raps. Doolittle a double and single and fished with a pair of singles parked Schellsburg's five-hit assault.

Rizer started on the peak for Hyndman but gave way to Glenn Evans at the start of the second chapter. Miller went the route for Schellsburg. The score by innings:

Mort Cooper Turns In Masterful Three-Hit Mound Performance

ST. LOUIS, April 21 (AP) — The Cardinals shut out the Cincinnati Reds, 8 to 0, today as Mort Cooper turned in a masterful three-hit pitching performance. His younger brother, Walker, did the catching.

The only blows off the big right-hander were three ineffective singles sprinkled in as many innings by Bert Haas, F. McCormick and Charley Aleno, the Reds' new third sacker.

Eleven of the twelve Card hits were off the veteran Bucky Walters, who was sent to the showers late in the seventh. The box score:

Alsab at Louisville To Finish Derby Work

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 21 (AP)—Alsab, the most discussed colt in racing circles and the Kentucky derby favorite in most winter books, arrived today to finish work for the Churchill Downs classic on May 2.

Trainer "Sarge" Swenke said the Al Sabath nominee had an uneventful trip from Maryland, where he ran second in the Chesapeake handicap last week. Swenke said he felt certain Alsab would be at his best in the derby.

The bargain colt is scheduled for his last testing next Tuesday in the derby trial.

After four disappointments in Florida and two other unimpressive efforts at Havre de Grace, Alsab still is listed as the derby favorite, some holding him as short as 4 to 1.

City Is Assured Of Softball Loop For 1942 Season

Five Clubs Reorganize Circuit -- Will Open Second Week in May

The City Softball League, at a meeting last night at the Central Y. M. C. A., reorganized for the 1942 season and indications point to a six or eight-team circuit according to President Cliff Fearer.

Five clubs, including three hold-over outfits, were represented at the loop's second session of the year. Lacy's Delicats, the West Side Merchants and North End were in the circuit last season and retained berths while the Central Y. M. C. A. and DeMolay were new outfits granted franchises.

President Fearer, in announcing that next Tuesday night would be the deadline for any other teams to apply for berths, said that the league will operate with the five available clubs if no other teams are interested.

The campaign will open the second week in May and final arrangements will be made at the loop's last meeting before the season idlers next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the "Y". Player contracts will be distributed at that time.

Umpires approved last night were Frank McCleary, John Mock, John Angelotta, Frank Postman, George Rice, Ed Widdows and Charley True. The Delicats were represented by Irvin Crabtree and Charles Abe, West Side by Junior Naughton and Charles Fisher, North End by Ira "Red" Boyer, Central "Y" by Chet Twigg and Jack Baker and DeMolay by Frank Wilson.

O'Connor Reports Heavier Betting Earlier Fears for Success of State Racing Program Dispelled

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 21 (AP)—Traffic at the mutual windows of Maryland race tracks is heavier this year than last, Governor O'Connor disclosed today.

Reporting the state's first wartime turf meeting was a big success, O'Connor said the nine-day Bowie card, which inaugurated the racing season, found bettors plunking down more money each day than in 1941.

He quoted figures from a report submitted by Frank Small, Jr., State Racing Commission chairman, who said the average daily handle at Bowie was $450,960. This O'Connor reported, was $92,783 more than the daily average for Bowie's 1941 spring meeting.

Small also reported that the current Havre de Grace meeting, which concludes Saturday, has been well attended. He indicated Havre's daily track would be increased appreciably over the 1941 figures.

With Pinlock scheduled to inaugurate its spring program next week, O'Connor remarked that earlier fears for the success of the state's lengthy racing program have been dispelled by the "excellent start."

GO AFTER MAXIMUM
DON'T BE satisfied to embark on a plan of ruffing out certain losers in your hand until you have first surveyed the possibilities of setting up a long suit for discards. That applies most emphatically when you are in a match point duplicate which you are trying to win, and in which you may get bottom score if you merely make your contract or even one or two over-tricks. Somebody else will steal away match points which you yourself might have shared by giving a little more thought to your problem.

At most tables where this deal was played, the heart 4 was led and ruffed by the spade 9. The diamond Q was sent through, the diamond J covered by the K and A, the heart 9 ruffed by the spade Q, the club Q finesse won and the heart Q ruffed by the spade K. The club 5 was sent to the A, the spade A cashed and the 10 lost to the J. The heart A was returned, ruffed by the spade 2 and the spade 8 cashed, dropping the 7. This made the spade 5 good, and the diamond 6 to the 10 took the final trick, making six-odd and producing two extra tricks.
Another declarer, Joseph E. Cain, of Indianapolis, took all of the tricks for a top. After ruffing the heart lead, he went to work on setting up clubs. First he won the Q finesse, then the A, led the spade 2 to the Q and the club 6, ruffing with the spade 10, which East could not over-ruff. A spade to the king enabled him to put the diamond Q through, and lead the J to the K and A. The spade A dropped West's last trump, and the diamond 8 to the 10 was an entry for the set-up clubs.

University Head Thinks War Will Last for Seven Or Eight Years

Dr. H. C. Byrd Tells Rotarians That People Should Plan Accordingly; Tells of Training Program

Expressing his belief, based upon an aggregate of expert opinion that this world war will not be ended for at least seven or eight years, Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, declared here yesterday that everybody should plan accordingly.

The institution over which he presides is doing that, Byrd said in a talk here before the Rotary club at its weekly luncheon at the Port Cumberland hotel, and it is increasing enlarged plans in its work of training men and women for the war program.

An outstanding work being done at the university, Byrd said, is that of training pilots for the air forces. A work that was started there some time before the nation entered the war.

There is a pressing need for such service, Byrd explained, and the need for thorough training is obvious by reason of the fact that the training is highly technical both for flight and ground service. In fact, the requirements are higher than those for any other branch of the armed services, it was stated, the necessity for competency in higher mathematics being cited as an instance.

Training Need Is Great

The need for this training has become greater in view of spreading war conditions and the vast development of aerial warfare, Byrd noted. The war program is so gigantic, he declared, that Gen. Arnold, head of the army air corps, predicted in a telegram just received by Byrd that every single youth in the land who can pass the physical and mental requirements will be called upon to supply the air forces of the nation.

Hundreds of pilots have been trained at College Park, where ample facilities are available both in professional personnel and equipment, including an adequate air field. The training has been so good, Byrd said, that both navy and army officers have praised it as ranking with the best given in the country and have constantly asked for University of Maryland graduates.

Exceptional progress is being made in various kinds of research connected with the development of war implements of various kinds, Byrd noted, and some of the outstanding experts of the country have been brought to College Park to take part in the work.

Another important training on which efforts are being concentrated, the university head related, is that given in the chemical warfare service schools. Here teachers are being trained to aid the work in civilian defense as well as in armed warfare.

Predicts Bombings

The need here is important, the speaker declared, for the reason that this country stands subject to

Marylanders Will Get Extra Sugar For Canning Needs

One Additional Pound Will Be Given Consumer during May and June

One pound of sugar extra for home canning will be made available to consumers in Maryland during May and June, Louis C. Burr, state rationing administrator announced yesterday.

During an entire year, he stated, every person holding a war ration book can get a special allotment of not more than five pounds for home canning or preserving fresh vegetables and fruits for home consumption.

Application for extra sugar for canning will be made to local rationing boards on a special form to be provided by the OPA and will have to be presented by an adult member of the family.

The standard rationing allotment during the first eight weeks is one-half pound per person per week. It was explained that the allotment for home canning would be in addition to this amount.

Sugar rationing registration gets under way next Tuesday, April 28, with the registration of the trade and all retailers and wholesalers. Burr urges all registrants identified with the trade group to obtain copies of the application forms in advance of the registration dates which are set for April 28 and 29 at the high schools throughout the State of Maryland. Considerable information is asked for on the application forms and if this data can be gathered and the form filled out in advance the registrant will then need only appear at the local registration site for the purpose of signing and filing their registration blanks.

Copies of the trade application forms are available at the high schools and local rationing boards. Consumers will register May 4 through May 7.

Mayor, Council Seek Cheaper Price Stone for Airport

Possibility of obtaining stone, for use at the municipal airport, for less than twelve and one-half cents per ton, the present price being paid, will be discussed at a meeting of the mayor and city council this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

William E. McDonald, finance commissioner, and Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, will present data secured in a survey they conducted after McDonald expressed the opinion that stone could be bought at a price much less than the present cost.

The council was buying the stone from the Green Point quarry, which closed recently. Perry A. Nicklin who operates the High Point quarry as well as the Green Point quarry, offered to supply stone from the High Point quarry at the same price as the city had been paying.

The survey followed a suggestion by Mayor Thomas Conlon that an investigation be conducted in an effort to secure stone at a cheaper price.

Back Shops Workers Buy Defense Bonds

Local Plants Should Be Protected From Sabotage, Army Officer Says

Lieut. Col. Brady Urges Fingerprinting of All Employees

Representatives of twenty industrial plants, railroads, law enforcement agencies, power and light concerns and civilian defense officials attended a meeting last night in city hall at which time Lieut. Col. John C. Brady, commander of the Maryland district internal security force, United States Army, urged them to prepare to combat sabotage and Fifth Column activities.

"Americans are too cocksure," Col. Brady said, and this has led to our being bombed at Pearl Harbor and other places. "It is true that these occurrences happened long distances from Cumberland and nearby towns, but you must prepare against mass sabotage and Fifth Column activities," he warned.

25 Criminal Cases Are Set for Trial In Circuit Court

Cumberland Junk Dealer Is Accused of Receiving Stolen Goods

Twenty-five of the forty-three cases in which the grand jury returned indictments last week were docketed yesterday for trial when the criminal docket is called in circuit court next week.

Abe Feldstein, Cumberland junk dealer, is accused in two indictments of receiving stolen goods. One of the true bills charges that in October, 1941, he knowingly bought nearly 600 tie plates, valued at $274.62, which had been stolen from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, while the other accuses him of knowingly purchasing in February, 1942, $45 worth of brass stolen from the B.&O.

George Ruhl is named in six indictments charging sale of alcoholic beverages to minors, and William Martz is accused of sale and possession of alcoholic beverages without a license.

Other indictments were returned as follows:

Charles Viney, larceny and receiving stolen goods; Robert Walker Smith, Archie Burton Holt, William Henry Holt and Donald Winters, larceny and receiving stolen goods; Walter Charles Diehl, burglary; Lester Fresh, sodomy; Albert E. Walker, alias Leroy Henderson Price, larceny and receiving stolen goods; Floyd L. Davis, alias Lee H. Davis, forgery (two indictments); Victor C. Whittaker and Lee Floyd Irons, robbery and assault with intent to rob; Preston J. Wagner and William McNeal, breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony; Thomas Ellsworth Williams, forcible trespass; Iven Wilson Crawford and Charles Jackson, larceny and receiving stolen goods; Jack Jones and Iven Wilson Crawford, burglary; Harry Homer Jones and Herman Leo Nazelrod, paternity.

Trespass Unintentional, City Says in Reply To Contempt Order

Trespass on the property of Rufus Lamp in Mineral county, W. Va., was unintentional, the mayor and city council of Cumberland said yesterday in reply to a West Virginia Supreme Court order to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Charleston, W. Va.

The city is building an airport with Work Projects Administration labor and was given authority by the 1941 West Virginia legislature to condemn land for the field. Condemnation proceedings were brought against one and a half acres of Lamp's land, but he appealed to the supreme court.

It was specified yesterday that after the contempt order was issued April 8, an agreement was reached with Lamp covering future actions.

The city told the supreme court that the WPA defense division was in full charge of the work and had 390 men laboring on the project. It conceded that as sponsor of the project it was technically a principal in the trespass, but contended it was not guilty of "flagrant disregard" of Lamp's rights and of the court order.

Saying the WPA workers who began on a road scheduled to go over Lamp's property did so unintentionally, the city added that no trespass now is being committed.

Draft Boards Arrange To Sign Up Infirm Men at Their Homes

Arrangements have been made by officials of the four Allegany county draft boards to register men between the ages of 45 and 65 at their homes or in hospitals if they are unable to go to one of the public school buildings.

The registration is set for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, April 25 to 27 inclusive, and a phone call to the nearest school on any of these days will bring a registrar to sign up those men unable to go to a registration place.

They were told it would be best to have only one entrance to their establishments and have that entrance heavily guarded. "By that, I mean guards suitably armed and provided with the authority to exclude even the president of the plant if he does not possess the necessary identification," Col. Brady declared.

"Each and every employee of your plants should be fingerprinted and the prints sent to the FBI for checking, key employees should have access to arms to handle any international trouble in plants due to Fifth Columnists. All those except employees in a plant during an emergency should be made to lie down on the floor or segregate in a room under guard," were among the preventives urged by Col. Brady.

"It would be better to have 10,000 false alarms in a plant producing war goods than have one day's work lost due to sabotage," he added.

Vital Spots Should Be Guarded

An extensive system of alarms and a tight-knit guarding system should be included at all power.

150 Guests Attend VFW Banquet Preceding Joint Installation

Blackwell and Reissig Are Honored; Officers of Two Posts Inducted

One hundred and fifty guests attended the banquet last evening at the Central Y. M. C. A., preceding a joint installation ceremony for officers of the post and auxiliaries of John R. Fairgrieve Post No. 2462, Frostburg, and Henry Hart Post No. 1411, of Cumberland, at the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post rooms, 205 Union street.

Army, Navy Represented

Honored guests on the occasion were Lt. John R. Blackwell, of the United States Army, who was commended for meritorious acts during the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor, December 7, and Fireman First Class Paul J. Reissig, who was among the 600 survivors of the United States heavy cruiser Houston, which was sunk by a Jap torpedo plane off Java in February.

Lt. Blackwell, who was accompanied by Miss Peggie Bischoff, was introduced by Thomas K. Whalley, adjutant of Henry Hart Post and master of ceremonies, told those present "that as long as we have men and women here like you rest assured that we will do our part."

Blackwell was at Hickam Field, Hawaii, during the Jap bombing, and received a citation during his graduation from the Ordnance Officers' Training School, Aberdeen, Md.

Reissig Tells of Sinking

Reissig, a graduate of LaSalle high school, told of the sinking of the Houston in the Java sea and of the loss of approximately 900 of a crew of 1,500 men. "The morale of the men in the navy is fine," Reissig declared, "and the boys are really in there pitching with all they've got."

Both youthful speakers were roundly applauded by the large assemblage of guests.

The program at the "Y" was opened with invocation by the Rev. Fred Zimmerman. George R. Golladay, patriotic instructor of the local V. F. W. post, lauded the work of the outgoing administration, and then introduced Thomas K. Whalley, adjutant and master ceremonies.

Whalley asked the guests to bow their heads and make a vow that they will always strive and work to continue meetings of this kind in this great democracy in commemoration of those who have given their lives in the present conflict.

Mrs. Hart Introduced

Following the introduction of Mrs. William R. Hart, mother of the late Henry Hart, after whom the local V. F. W. post is named, brief remarks were made by Mrs. Elsie Kilroy, past Maryland Department president; James Beacham, district commander; Mrs. Grace Rosenberg, district president; Mrs. Daisy Smith, of Baltimore, past president of District No. 12; Simeon W. Green, outgoing commander of Frostburg post; Mrs. Helen Stevens, retiring president of the Frostburg auxiliary.

Colfax Lodge No. 1 Holds Reception

A reception was held by Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 1 and greetings extended by Mrs. Donna Gatrell, noble grand, to "those who have so faithfully served in offices in the past, to again show respect for those who received the Decoration of Chivalry, April 6, at Baltimore, and to receive those appointed by the President of the Rebekah Assembly on April 8," last evening at the IOOF hall, South Mechanic street.

Corsages were presented to the retiring officers, Mrs. Lucy Welsh, special deputy president; Mrs. Esther Shannon, deputy president and Mrs. Katherine Kerns, home chairman; the new officers, Miss Catherine Ayers, special deputy president; Mrs. Katherine Kerns, deputy president; and Mrs. Ruby Reed, home chairman; Mrs. Emma Cessna and Mrs. Caroline Walsh, past presidents of the Rebekah assembly; and Mrs. Stella Curtis and Mrs. Iola Shultz, who received the decoration of Chivalry.

Mrs. Shannon and Mrs. Kerns also received special gifts from the lodge, the presentation being made by Mrs. Gatrell. Mrs. Shannon expressed her appreciation of assistance by Mrs. Welsh and Miss Ayers, during her term as deputy president by presenting each with a gift.

The entertainment program included readings by Loris Lee Keyser and Eva Davis; a piano solo by Dolores Riggs and vocal selections by Esther Whalley.

The following members of Theta Rho Girls Club No. 6, which is affiliated with the Rebekahs acted as pages to the officers and presented them with gifts and flowers; they are June Henry, Carolyn Ringler, Dolores Riggs, Helen Spiker, Eva Davis, Betty Richardson, Ellen Newman, Betty Benford, Stella Thernan, Shirley Lou Nichols, Carolyn Brant and Esther Whalley.

Plans were made for the initiation ceremony to be held in the IOOF hall May 5, at the business meeting preceding the reception.

Green Protests W. Va. Location For War Plant

But Other Commissioners Decline To Join In Protest Telegrams

Simeon W. Green, president of the board of county commissioners, yesterday expressed concern over reports that the $5,000,000 war production plant scheduled to be constructed in the Cumberland area is to be built in nearby West Virginia, but he failed to win board approval for dispatch of telegrams or "protest" to federal and state officials.

Explaining that he wanted in no way to hamper or interfere with the war production program, Green said that his idea was to seek to have the plant located in Allegany county, and he indicated that he would send the messages as a private citizen.

Motion Dies

Green's motion for authorization to send the telegrams brought an immediate protest from Commissioner Patrick J. Stakem, who said he did not wish his name affixed. After some discussion, Commissioner James Holmes declined to second the motion.

Commissioners Stakem and Holmes indicated that they did not wish to act on the matter pending more definite information as to the proposed site and the availability of Allegany county sites. They also suggested that all plans were now probably complete.

Green insisted that there was no reason the factory could not be built in this county, rather than in West Virginia.

Scheduled to be sent to Maryland's Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor, United States Senators Millard E. Tydings and George L. Radcliffe and Rep. Katharine E. Byron, the proposed protest said that "it is currently reported that proposed defense plant for this section is to be located in nearby West Virginia."

'No Bridges To Build'

"If this is true," the suggested message said, "we wish to register Allegany county's protest as to location, as there is desirable acreage nearer to Cumberland on an excellent highway, served by two trunk-line railroads on the Maryland side, with no bridges to build or maintain."

Inasmuch as Cumberland and Allegany county will be called upon to furnish labor and other facilities, and the Savage River dam, erected through a million-dollar bond issue of Allegany county, will be called upon to furnish an additional water supply, your immediate investigation and advice will be appreciated.

'We Urge and request Maryland location.'

The reference to "no bridges to build or maintain" was apparently prompted by Gov. O'Connor's week-end announcement that the state roads commission had been directed to proceed with bridge and road improvements in the vicinity of the war production plant. The governor made particular mention of strengthening a bridge in preparation for the increased traffic to result from the operation of the factory.

Describing in detail the functions of the ground observers, Ashton traced the workings of the system from a single spotting post through various channels to the anti-aircraft guns and the inter-ceptor planes. He also emphasized that the warnings of these spotters likewise form the basis for civilian defense against air raids.

Declaring that the importance of the spotters could not be over-emphasized, Lieut. Ashton called for additional volunteers to help man the posts.

The meeting was in charge of Howard P. Loughrie, local civil director for Allegany and Garrett counties.

Disorderly Conduct Charges Are Upheld

Charges of disorderly conduct against Charles Brown, Greensboro, N. C., and Henry Hetrick, Spangler, Pa., were upheld in police court yesterday morning when the men were found guilty.

Brown's sentence was suspended with the provision that he leave the city within twenty-four hours; Hetrick paid a fine of $5.

The men were arrested after a fray in a local hotel Sunday morning. Hetrick suffered a knife wound in his left thigh.

Walter W. Clay Rites Will Be Held Today

Funeral services for Walter W. Clay, well-known operator of a Cumberland detective bureau, will be held today leaving the home, 229 Columbia street, for St. Patrick's Catholic church where the rites will be conducted. The Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty will officiate.

Honorary pallbearers will be J. Philip Roman, Associate Judge William A. Huster, Thomas P. Conlon, Oscar A. Eyerman, Morgan C. Harris, William J. Edwards, John D. Liebau and William Claus.

Active pallbearers will be Benjamin P. Gaffney, Emmett Flynn, Joseph O'Rourke, Frank Naughton, George Sellers and Dr. James P. Dewhurst.

Interment will be in St. Patrick's cemetery.

F. Brooke Whiting Named Member of WPB Traffic Group

The War Production Board yesterday appointed F. Brooke Whiting, attorney, and president of the Queen City Brewing Company, to membership on a traffic committee representing the brewing industry of the United States.

A traffic advisory committee on industrial alcohol, intended to advise the government on the transportation of molasses, industrial alcohol, and beverage alcohol which is being distilled into 190-proof industrial alcohol, was also created today by the Office of Defense Transportation. The eight-member committee is headed by Ralph R. Luddecke, New York City.

The War Production Board recently announced a program for shipping crude rye and bourbon whiskey—called "high wine" from 26 distilleries in Kentucky, Maryland and eastern Pennsylvania to large industrial alcohol plants for conversion into industrial alcohol needed for explosives production. The committee is expected to assist in arranging this large-scale movement.

Navy Man Who Survived Warship's Sinking Anxious To Return To Sea

Paul Reissig Tells Reporter He Had 'No Time To Get Excited'

Reissig reported that the men spent the entire seven and one-half hours they were aboard the raft telling stories and joking about the size of the hole in the ship.

"Wasn't anyone afraid?" the reporter asked. "Not on that raft," Reissig replied. "You just don't think about things that will make you afraid."

"We were picked up by an American ship and three days later landed in Sydney, Australia, where we spent three days," Reissig said, "and from there we were brought back to the States. It sure was good to see land and to know that I was going to get home for a while, but now I'm ready to go back and square accounts for the sinking of the Houston."

True to the code of all service men, Reissig refused to say where he had before orders to abandon ship.

Teachers Denied Salary Increases As Commissioners Slash Tax Rate

Budget of $1,808,410.93 Results in 1942 Rate of $1.38, Five Cents Lower Than Last Year

Declining to approve additional compensation for public school teachers, the board of county commissioners yesterday approved a budget of $1,808,410.93 for the fiscal year 1942 and slashed five cents off the county tax rate to make it $1.38 per $100 of assessable property.

The new budget, signed early yesterday afternoon by all three members of the board, represents a decrease of $84,051.57 from the 1941 budget, which totaled $1,892,462.50 and resulted in a 1941 county tax rate of $1.43. This cut in the total budget, together with the fact that $500,000 has been added to the assessable basis, accounts for the lowering of the tax rate.

Assessable Basis $94,000,000

Last year, the county's assessable basis was $93,500,000, as compared to $94,000,000 for the current year.

The budget makes no provision whatever for additional pay for teachers—neither the $150 raise recommended by the board of education for 1942-43 nor the $240 "bonus" sought by the teachers for the current school year. However, certain automatic salary increases provided for by law are included for a total increase in the "instructional service" budget of $29,961.

Proposed by the school board in a supplemental budget, the $150 increase for each of the county's 493 teachers would have aggregated $73,950. This was flatly turned down by the commissioners, who did approve, however, the school board's recommendation for a five per cent increase in the wages of sixty-three janitors and a ten per cent jump in the transportation budget. The janitors' increase aggregated $3,056.35 and that for school bus costs $9,245.

Stakem Favors Increase

Although he joined Commissioner Simeon W. Green and James W. Holmes in signing the levy, Commissioner Patrick J. Stakem, lone Democratic member of the board, let it be known that he had not voted for the motion eliminating the teacher's salary increase from the budget.

The action on the school board's supplemental budget was taken at a closed session Monday afternoon. Green, president of the board, moved that the school board's recommendations for increases for janitors and school bus operators be approved, and the motion was seconded by Holmes.

Stakem, dissented, arguing that in accordance with past procedure, the commissioners should approve the supplemental budget in its entirety, but he was over-ruled.

Schools Get $797,961

The school budget, as approved, accounts for $797,961 of the total budget, or sixty cents of each $1.38 levied. The county contribution is supplemented by $372,989 from the state and other sources for a grand total of $1,170,950.

Biggest cuts made by the commissioners were in the contingent fund, which was reduced $33,997.38 from $81,621.77 last year to $45,624. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)
